SPORT FIXTURES FOR WEEK-END

Indians' Cricket Record At Stake

ANOTHER FULL PROGRAMME

Everything points to another very enjoyable Saturday afternoon for the sporting public of Hong Kong to-day for what with cricket, football, hockey and Rugby Football, there should be plenty to do over the week-end.

The League football programme should be particularly interesting in view of the fact that members of the Interport Selection Committee will no doubt make it a point to attend the most important games with a view to studying form in connection with the forthcoming match against Shanghai.

So far as the cricket part of the programme is concerned there are three excellent first division games but this will be dealt with in detail under the heading of "Cricket," and the same applies to the soccer and hockey sections.

The Triangular Tournament

Rugby Football match between the Club and Army at Sookunpoo should attract a good number of followers of this game while the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club will also be holding their usual week-end sailing races.

CANTON LEADERS DEPLORE TRANSFER OF COLONY GOVERNOR

Hon. Mr. S. H. Dodwell To Make Protest In London Shortly

BRITISH CONSUL-GENERAL IN CANTON FETED

The Committees of the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce and China Association (Hong Kong Branch) gave a tiffin yesterday in honour of Mr. Herbert Phillips, C.M.G., O.B.E., who is passing through the Colony on vacating the post of H.M. Consul-General at Canton and proceeding on leave to England before taking up his new appointment as Consul-General at Shanghai.

The Hon. Mr. S. H. Dodwell, who presided in the capacity of Chairman of the two Committees, expressed in vigorous terms the strong feeling which exists in the Colony at the unfortunate turn of events which has resulted in the almost simultaneous transfer both of a Consular Officer and a Colonial Governor who had both rendered exceptional service.

Mr. Phillips, in his reply, agreed with the Chairman that the transfer of Sir Andrew Caldecott was a very great loss; he diplomatically added that he could only assume specially difficult problems in Ceylon required a very special Governor like Sir Andrew to deal with them. He added that his Chinese friends in Canton have also expressed their keen disappointment regarding the matter.

"Something Radically Wrong With System"

Those present at the luncheon were: the Hon. Mr. Stanley H. Dodwell, (in the chair), Mr. Herbert Phillips, (the guest of honour), the Hon. Mr. A. W. Hughes (Vice-Chairman), the Hon. Mr. J. J. Patterson, Messrs. A. Bready, P. S. Cassidy, V. M. Grayburn, J. R. Mason, G. M. Martin, T. A. Mitchell, K. S. Morrison, T. E. Pearce, J. W. Platt, G. W. Sewell, and A. L. Shields, with the Secretary (Mr. M. F. Key), Mr. G. C. Pelham (H.M. Trade Commissioner) was also present as a co-opted member of the Chamber of Commerce Committee.

In proposing the health of the guest of honour, the Hon. Mr. S. H. Dodwell said in part:—

Gentlemen: Our feelings on this occasion must of necessity be somewhat mixed, for while I am sure there is no single host amongst us who does not wholeheartedly congratulate Mr. Phillips upon his appointment to Shanghai, I am equally sure there is no single one who does not wholeheartedly deplore his departure from Canton at a time when British interests demand the services there of the very best material which the Consular Service can provide.

Mr. Phillips' notable administration in the Southern capital has been marked by a far greater degree of that essential co-operation between the British Consulate, the Hong Kong Government, and the Hong Kong business community than we have ever had before. (Hear, hear.) This closer relationship in its turn has very materially improved the relations between the two cities, and now, just at the moment when we might reasonably be expecting to reap some concrete benefit from this better understanding, co-operation of a different and mysterious kind comes into play in the Government departments at home, which has resulted in the Foreign Office and the Colonial Office removing at the same time their two distinguished representatives in South China, and so appearing to us ordinary business men to be doing their best to undo much of the good which the Treasury did by sending out to us their High Priest of finance and economics, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross.

I humbly apologise to Mr. Phillips for the shockingly bad taste which permits me to speak in this frontal and almost treasonable way in front of him about the actions of his superiors at home. Nevertheless, in the same breath I express the fervent hope that when he gets home he will repeat my remarks in no uncertain terms in the appropriate quarters. I shall certainly do so myself when I reach England two months later—for what it will be worth—because I most strongly feel, gentlemen, that after fortune has smiled upon us to the extent of blessing us with a Consular official and a Colonial official with whom and for whom it has been a real pleasure to work in British interests, and from whom we have received exceptional service there must surely be something radically wrong with a system which permits them both to be spirited away just at the time when things are getting better, without either a by your leave or consultation of any kind whatsoever.

LINKING UP KOWLOON WITH HANKOW

Plans For Improving China's Railways

NEW STATIONS AND COLD STORAGE

Hankow (By Mail): New plans for improving the Canton-Hankow Railway have been worked out by the railway authorities.

The plans call in particular for the inauguration of an express service, the acceleration of train services, the building of new stations, cold storages and godowns, the improvement of the ferry service, the completion of the Whampoa extension, and the training of personnel.

For the inauguration of an express service the railway authorities have ordered new rolling stock from England which is expected to arrive in China next February. After necessary preparations, express trains will be run daily from both terminals, beginning either next March or next April.

To speed up train services the railway track and traffic facilities will be improved. Worn-out sleepers will be replaced, and traffic signals and other facilities will be repaired. Working efficiency of the traffic staff will also be emphasized.

In view of the congestion of traffic, the stations in Canton, Changsha, and Wuchang will be enlarged. For the convenience of the increasing population in Wuchang a new station in addition to the existing one at Hsuehsien will be constructed outside Pingyang Men (gate).

Thousands of lives are endangered. All industries in the flood area are at a standstill. Light and power are unobtainable and the scarcity of drinking water is causing widespread privation.

Seven thousand residents at Lawrenceville, Indiana, were forced to evacuate the town.

Another fifteen thousand at Portsmouth, Ohio, were warned by factory sirens to leave the danger zone prior to the opening of sluices and submerging a part of the city in the hope of averting the collapse of a sixty-foot flood-wall of water lapping the top walls as the families fled.

Ten States have now reported damage from snow and rain which continue to feed the rising rivers.

THE TIGER NOT DEAD!

Shatin Woman Killed

Some months ago the people of the New Territory were greatly scared by the visit of a tiger which resulted in a great loss of their cows. A few days ago, the dead body of a tiger was discovered in the bushes, and it was thought that this was the end of the beast. It is now stated that this ferocious beast is not dead, because a villager of the Tai Way Village, Shatin, has just reported that the blood-stained remains of a woman with nearly the whole of the body missing has been found on the North East face of Tai Mo Shan, close to the No. 7 Mine. It is believed that the unfortunate woman was killed by this tiger. It is also reported that a man, who is known to have gone to the mountain to collect fire-wood is missing, and it is feared that he has been carried off and eaten by the same tiger.

BRIDGE ACROSS THE KAN RIVER

Named After The Generalissimo

Nanchang (By Mail): Marking another engineering feat in Kiangsi, the Chung Chen Bridge, spanning the Kan River at Nanchang, was recently completed and formally thrown open to traffic.

Named after Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek whose courtesy name is Chung Chen, the Bridge was constructed at a total cost of $987,000. It is 3,535 feet long and 28 feet wide with 18 arches. Its piers are of cement concrete, while the surface and the beams are of strong pine wood. In the middle is a passage for motor traffic, being flanked on both sides by sidewalks for pedestrians.

The suggestion for the construction of a gigantic bridge across the Kan River to facilitate traffic between Nanchang and Niuhsing, situated on opposite banks was advanced by General Hsiung Shih-hui, Chairman of the Kiangsi Provincial Government, in 1934 after the extermination of the Communist bandits in Kiangsi. The engineering project was drafted by Mr. Kung Hsueh-sui, Kiangsi Commissioner of Reconstruction, in collaboration with bridge experts despatched by the Ministry of

HOCKEY TEAMGood Progress
Shown

(BY BEN MADIGAN)

The progress achieved by the Rifles Ladies Hockey XI since its inception, is quite a creditable one, considering the fact that ladies hockey was more or less in its infancy up to the arrival of the Battalion in Hong Kong.

Actually there were only three or four ladies in the regiment who possessed a fair knowledge of the game, and whose enthusiastic efforts—encouraged by the support of others, resulted in a team being entered in the local (Junior League) Brawn Cup Competition. Their record to date is a very convincing one:—Played 5, won 6, Lost 1, Drew 1. Points 13.—and they were decidedly unlucky in not lowering the colours of the undefeated C.B.S. "A" recently, the latter only equalling in the closing minutes of the game.

Of the present team Mesdames Osborne, Elwood and McNiran are progressing favourably, considering that they have only recently taken the game seriously. The more experienced members of the side, Mesdames Ratcliffe, Hoie, Campbell and the Misses D and E. Hamon, show exceptional promise. B.Q.M.S. Manders performs the role of coach to the team, and more than a big share of their success can be traced to his valuable experience and the sound advice imparted to the players. He possesses a thorough knowledge of the finer points of the game, and is one of the most efficient umpires in the colony.

PERRY'S PRICE
UP £10,000Result Of Win Over
Ellsworth Vines

America's tennis experts appeared to have hardly recovered from the shock given them by Perry's decisive defeat of their hero Vines by 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, in New York on January 8. Bewildered experts they are, too, for almost without exception they prophesied victory for Vines. Some had described Perry's chances with contempt. They prophesied countless times that once Vines met Perry there would be no more Perry.

The result gave America's experts the surprise of their lives. The public, trained to believe Vines unbeatable, were amazed, too.

Vines's illness, of which radio listeners were informed while he was losing the match, apparently developed with extraordinary suddenness.

Two lights before the match he had stomach pains, but he explained that there was nothing wrong as he often got these from nerves before big matches.

Perry Also Unwell

Early on the morning of the match he said he felt sound. Yet in the match interval after Perry had won two or three sets, Tilden announced over the radio that Vines had influenza, and a high temperature, so was not up to form.

There was no announcement that Perry was also feeling very ill, suffering from a touch of influenza.

After the match, in fact, Perry rushed from the court in a state of collapse. In his dressing-room later he sat clinging to a table, gasping for breath.

When someone told Perry his victory would add £10,000 to his value on the present tour, Vines broke in angrily: "Yes, and it won't mean a darn thing to me next year."

Vines's illness appeared in the American news as the excuse for his defeat, but unbiased critics know that Perry won a fine fair victory.

Vines's Speed Countered

Perry met Vines's speed with the steadiness of returns, thereby surprising Vines, whose speed is one of his great assets.

On the whole, Perry, although playing on a strange court under strange conditions, out-generalled his opponent, especially when it came to winning points by placing shots where Vines could not reach them.

Perry produced every stroke known to the game, and no one in the world would have stood a chance with him on his play.

The crowd, numbered 17,630—the largest ever drawn to a professional lawn tennis match—and the receipts £11,623 were also a record.

G. M. Lott said: "Perry gave an exhibition of beautiful tennis, but I do not think he could beat Vines every day in the week."

FIFTY YEARS OF EDUCATIONGolden Jubilee Of Engineering

The jubilee of the foundation of the School of Engineering at the Polytechnic, Regent-Street, London, was celebrated on Thursday, December 10, and at the same time the opportunity was taken to open officially the newly-equipped electrical machinery laboratory.

In a statement made at the beginning of the proceedings in the Fyvie Hall, Mr. Philip Kemp, Head of the School, said that since 1821 the average number of full-time engineering students had been 120, of whom 58 had gained the Bachelor of Science degree in engineering at London University. In addition, some 340 national diplomas had been granted to full-time students, and 797 national certificates in mechanical and electrical engineering had been awarded to evening students.

ROMANCE AND HEROISM

In the course of an address, Sir Henry Pelham, permanent secretary to the Board of Education, said that there were interest, romance and heroism to be found in any jubilee celebration, and of no institution in the country was this more true than of the Polytechnic. Nothing would have given its founders more pleasure than its present success. It possessed a great corporate spirit, which recognised that the business of an

EQUIPMENT OF STATIONSComforts Of The Passengers

In American Notes, Dickens gave a slightly ironical description of the first-class cabin in the ship on which he had booked a passage to the United States nearly 100 years ago. It is only necessary to compare this with what appeared a few months ago about the similar accommodation in the Queen Mary, to realise the advance that has been made, while that which has occurred since the beginning of this century is almost equally great. It is therefore not a little surprising that similar steps have not been taken to make embarkation and disembarkation, two operations which are never of the pleasantest, more comfortable, and that this drawback is most evident at the ports of the two leading maritime nations—Great Britain and the United States.

Maritime Stations

This point was well brought out in a lecture on "Maritime Passenger Stations," which was delivered by Dr. Brysson Cunningham before the Institute of Transport. This lecture dealt mainly with the features of certain modern maritime stations, including those at New York, Southampton, London, Liverpool, Genoa, Naples, Le Verdon, Cherbourg, Le Havre and Hamburg, and called attention to the fact that these places are being used by an increasing number of passengers, though their character has been influenced by the substitution of pleasure cruising for emigration. Nevertheless, until quite recently a cargo shed has been almost universally considered a fit and proper place for the embarkation and landing of passengers, and at a number of ports this view still holds. At New York, for instance, the passenger suffers an abrupt change from the luxury of the ship to the discomfort of the sheds where the customs examination is conducted. Moreover, there is no direct rail connection with the piers.

Useful Hints

While in England things are somewhat better, they are still open to criticism. There is no waiting room at the Ocean Dock, Southampton, and at the newer River Test Quay the passengers are discharged into an unheated shed, without seating accommodation other than rudimentary wooden forms. At Tilbury the seating, too, is of the uncomfortable village school type. On the other hand, Dr. Cunningham feels able to praise the architecture, equipment and organisation of the Ponte del Mille at Genoa, and to award similar encomiums to what has been done at Le Verdon, Cherbourg and Le Havre. It therefore seems that, in spite of the difficulty of reconciling the views of the shipping, port customs and railway authorities with those of the passenger, it is not outside the range of human effort to provide accommodation at least comparable to that available in modern ship or at a modern railway station. Dr. Cunningham, indeed, gave some useful hints as to how this may be done.

Ian MacEwen's Experience
In Church

(BY SCRUTATOR)

The days which followed Ian MacEwen's experience in Church, when he listened to the preaching of Studdert Kennedy, were days of heart searching; days of exaltation, days of despondency. One definite project alone took shape in his mind, he must serve his new found Master. His service was the way of his whole salvation. There was no other way. But beyond this he could not see. He could not even discover how that service was to be given. Often he thought on the ministry. Indeed the idea became a favourite one to him. It offered a respectable life and a comfortable security. Yes, why not return to the University?

Early in the morning and late at night he could hear the bells on the tower ringing sonorously every sixty minutes. Sometimes they seemed to sound a call to him; the gentle voice of his Alma Mater seeking a renegade son. To-night her bosom was warm to him. Become a student again, a different student, a Christ inspired student. His father at least would be pleased. He had always wanted him to become a minister. He would be sure to want to help with the funds.

It was good living at variety. He played with the project until dawn then fell asleep. Morning came. It was raining gently. He awoke suddenly. It was still quite early. What day was it? He pulled off the February page from the calendar. Why March too was nearly gone! Spring was here surely. He ate a snack and sat down by the open window. The rain-drops fell softly upon the back of his hand. The atmosphere was almost balmy. The sound of tram cars in Sauchiehall Street hummed through his head like distant music. The street sparrows twittered along the rooves.

A GOLDEN SILENCE

Slowly the minutes passed stealing away the blackness from his mind, leaving it shrouded in a thin greyness through which seemed to shine a yellow light. He was not conscious of himself now. Something deep within him thrilled to the sound of children's laughter. Unknown voices sung in his ears. But over all there hung a golden silence, vital, permeating, blending all his sensations into the single throbbing which quickened the beating of his heart.

Clang! Clang! Clang! Clang! The bell of Kent Road School summoned him to life again. He sat up and rubbed his eyes. The rain had ceased. He looked out and watched the children entering the school, two abreast, in neat orderly lines. He felt that he too should be doing something. But the hours would wait! He recalled his half-formed resolve. The hours might wait but opportunity sped on a swift foot.

"But must I return to University? Is there no way to serve Christ but in the ministry? Am I not free from classes and all the old life? Must I start all the hustle and toil again?"

DAFFODILS AND TULIPS

He took his hat from a peg and went out. Two minutes and he was walking leisurely in Kelvingrove Park. There were daffodils and tulips, hundreds of them, blowing bright and careless there. He sat down on a little seat on a side path below the statue of Lord Roberts and gazed over the outspread park. Motor cars flashed along Kelvinway. People walked along the carriage-ways. Some of them hurried along, others moved in a more leisurely manner. Two men came and sat down on an adjoining seat. MacEwen was annoyed. He wanted still to be alone. Need they have chosen that seat? Were there not hundreds more? One of the men spoke; obviously a city-dweller by his accent. He was the younger of the two by a good many years.

"Peggie and I always come to this seat at nights. Uncle John."

"O do ye? Do ye? It's a nice cosy bit corner."

"Ay, it is that, when ye can get it. It's often booked by the time we get up here. Ye see naebody can see much o' ye here."

"A daursay no! Dae many o' ye young courtin' firs come here?" The young man sniggered at his uncle's ignorance.

"A've seen the nicht, an' there's mony o' them, mainly in the summer time tho', when ye couldn't get a seat here, even tho' ye were willin' tae pay fur't."

"Is that so? Man a man!" Uncle John's eyes opened wide. "But it is changed days sin' I was a young man. We aye socht out the quietest spot that we could find, far awa' frae everybody. A never iald ma haunds faur lees ma lips on yer Aunt Mary whaur onybody could see me 'til lang efter we were mairrit. Man ye talk aboot commonity singin' gorb but ye hae commonity love-makin' and a'!"

NO STRUGGLING

The two men laughed, and rising from their seat walked off in the direction of the river. In a few

KING GEORGE VI
PRAYER BOOKSPublication After Easter

The new editions of the Book of Common Prayer, containing the State prayers and petitions for King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth, will not be published until after Easter, March 9th next, says a Home correspondent.

This has been decided by the authorised printers, the University Presses of Oxford and Cambridge, to avoid confusion with the prayer books containing the name of King Edward VIII.

Under the terms of a Royal Warrant, dated February 17, 1936, the necessary amendments set out in the Order of Council were made, and in compliance with this the prayer books were printed and published. The Royal Warrant authorising the substitution of the name of King George VI. has not yet been issued.

By next April when the new prayer books will probably be published, it is expected that the majority of booksellers will have disposed of their old stocks and the publishers' stocks will be considerably reduced.

As soon as the prescribed changes are officially announced to the printers, corrigenda slips will be printed giving full details of the changes, and will be available to booksellers free of charge. Already it is reported that many booksellers are buying the Edwardian

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
LESSON SERMON

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONG KONG

The subject of the Lesson Sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, to-morrow, will be: "Truth."

The Golden Text will be: "The Lord is Good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations." (Psalm 100:5).

Among others, the following citations from the Bible will be read: "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variable shadow of turning. Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of first-fruits of his creatures. Wherefore lay apart all dithness and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls. But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. For if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass: for he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was. But whose looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed." (James 1: 17, 18, 21-25).

The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth brings the elements of liberty. On its banner is the Soul-inspired motto, Slavery is abolished." The power of God brings deliverance to the captive. No power can withstand divine love. What is this supposed power, which opposes itself to God? Whence cometh it? What is it that binds man with iron shackles to sin, sickness, and death? What enslaves man is opposed to the divine government. Truth makes man free. You may know when first Truth leads by the fewness and faithfulness of its followers. Thus it is that the march of time bears onward freedom's banner. The powers of this world will fight, and will command their sentinels not to let truth pass the guard until it subscribes to their systems; but Science, heeding not the pointed bayonet, marches on. There is always some tumult, but there is a rallying to truth's standard. Discerning the rights of man, we cannot fail to foresee the doom of all oppression. Slavery is not the legitimate state of man. God made man free. Paul said, "I was free born." All men should be free. "Where the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty." Love and Truth make free, but evil and error lead into captivity. Christian Science raises the standard of liberty and cries: "Follow me! Escape from the bondage of sin, sickness, and death!" Jesus marked out the way. Citizens of the world, accept the "glorious liberty of the children of God," and be free! This is your divine right." (Pages 224, 227).

CHARACTER

Theosophical Society
Address

"Evolution," said Mr. A. F. Knudsen, Presidential Agent of the Theosophical Society, at Manuk Lodge last Thursday, "is my scheme of salvation."

For although Science theorised on an Evolution of Body, of form only, Theosophy indicated another evolution, the Evolution of the Life behind the form. A muddled, undefined Intelligence did not take behind as the form improved. Instead, it was the teaching of Theosophists that as the Life and Intelligence progressed so its vehicles (the physical, emotional and mental bodies) became better. This Evolution of Life was an ascertainable fact and those capable of proving it saw before humanity a wonderful and boundless destiny. As they saw that the spiritual leaders of the world had already reached far along the road.

The Life in the animal did not become human until it realised itself as a separate being. As a higher animal, as a horse, a dog or a cat, it was already building character. Thus it was even then an individual when it finally took incarnation as a human.

It found itself in a school of hard knocks for that was how the primitive savage (the young human soul) was to gain character. If he was not continually aware he would be used as a meal by hungry carnivores; if he did not observe whether he went he would fall over a precipice.

MIND AND MORALS

Thus he gained intelligence and parallel to that, that real concrete thing called character. As he took on less coarse physical bodies in more civilised races he grew less "sinful." For sin was nothing else but the absence of character in that direction.

For that was the Evolution of Mind and Morals in "Daily Life." In the daily life of each incarnation humanity learnt that breaking the laws of social relationships merely brought sorrow. The consideration of such things and the effort to make one's living brought about an enlarging of the mind until it realised that life was more than a struggle for existence.

Humanity represented by Science was now practically at that stage. The laws of Existence were eagerly being sought by Scientists. Psychology was already saying that character could be built; but was going the wrong way about it in Psycho-analysis when it attempted to build the characters of others.

For none could build one's character except oneself; and this is what one should purposely do. With such building one could bring oneself nearer to the eventual Self-Consciousness of Divinity. One could do that, the sages said, in seven lives. Perhaps less in a sustained, magnificent effort. While Krishnamurti said that one could do it here and now.

What prevented one from surging ahead as one should? The most considerable factor was, perhaps, fear. There was nothing to be more afraid of than fear. And fear of death was again a great but unnecessary hindrance. For a human being was not his physical body; he was the Life behind it and he used the body as a vehicle. As a good driver would use a car and change it for a new one when it became too old to use, so did man deal with his bodies.

Fearlessness in all action, with, however, study of the situation beforehand, was what marked the man who had a practical belief in the existence of God and the rigidity and perfect justice of all His laws.

This marked Mr. A. F. Knudsen's last talk to the Hong Kong public before he, accompanied by his wife, would be leaving for the interior. On behalf of the appreciative audiences, Mrs. O. M. Parkinson, the lodge's President thanked Mr. and Mrs. Knudsen heartily.

CATHOLIC NEWS
AND NOTESVISITORS ON THE WAY TO MANILA

The list of distinguished visitors going to Manila for the Eucharistic Congress contains many interesting names, and as most of these will pass through Hong Kong we may expect to find the Colony spoken of in many parts of the world within the next few months.

Twenty Bishops from various parts of China are passing through Hong Kong within the coming week, they come from nearly every province of the Republic. Many too are coming from the United States. They include the Archbishop of San Francisco, Mr. Mitty, one of the outstanding personalities among the younger members of the hierarchy, and Bishop Noll of Fort Wayne, one of the most conspicuous organisers of lay religious activity in America. Poland is well represented among those coming from Europe, while among those coming from Ireland is the Apollon Nuncio to that country, Archbishop Paschal Robinson, who began life as a newspaperman, and is a scholar greatly interested in Oriental things.

SANGLAN ISLAND

Many of the visitors coming from the United States to the Congress are going to include in their itinerary Sanglan Island, a hundred miles south-west of Hong Kong, the scene of the death of St. Francis Xavier, the first great Catholic missionary to the Far East. The "Empress of Russia" will leave for Sanglan next Saturday (January 30th) with some three hundred passengers. The genial pastor of Sanglan is Fr. Robert Calma, the Maryknoll priest who has done more for any living man to make Sanglan Island known abroad. He has been for many years the only westerner on the island but his cheerful personality has made life tolerable in conditions that could not be easily borne by many. There are about four thousand people on the island which in size and formation is very similar to Hong Kong.

PRIESTS AND TYPHOONS

The long discussions that have taken part at the Meteorological Congress which has continued throughout the present week recall the fact that the earliest information about typhoons, which Hong Kong merchants received came from the Jesuit Observatory in Manila. It was Fr. Faura, a science teacher in the Jesuit College at Manila, that, after years of study devoted to local weather conditions, made there the first tentative prediction of the coming of a typhoon in the northern part of the

"BULLETS OR BALLOTS"

Although he doesn't like being referred to as a "collector," Edward G. Robinson has one of the finest collections of modern art on the Pacific Coast. The actor, now starring in "Bullets or Ballots," the First National production which is showing at the King's Theatre, gathers valuable paintings "for the fun of it" rather than as investments.

In "Bullets or Ballots," Robinson plays the part of a detective who breaks up one of the greatest racket rings in New York, headed by leading citizens.

Others in the cast include Joan Blondell, Barton MacLane, Humphrey Bogart, Frank McHugh and Joseph King. William Knighley directed the picture from the screen play by Seton I. Miller, based on the story by Martin Mooney and Miller.

"TO MARY, WITH LOVE"

A love story, gallant and glorious, of two modern sweethearts, hiding their tears and holding back their hurts, romancing lightly yet loving deeply, "To Mary, With Love," Twentieth Century-Fox triumph, opens at the Queen's Theatre to-morrow.

Co-starring Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy for the third time, and providing them with a story and background which enables them to surpass the heights they reached together in "Penthouse" and "Broadway Bill," the picture is an important and appealing story of love to-day, a splendid love that takes its place with the screen's great romances.

Based on Richard Sherman's widely discussed novel of the same title, "To Mary—With Love" is a love letter to every theatre-goer—a love letter of a romantic couple and their years together, bitter-sweet with hurt and happiness.

Opening with the wedding of Baxter and Miss Loy, the film moves swiftly through the hectic days of the late twenties when industrial empires were rising and the nation lived and laughed as the crest of fortune mounted ever higher.

Best man at the marriage is Ian Hunter who idolizes the bride, Myrna, but grins with happiness as he sees her ecstasy in the arms of Baxter.

Scarcely is their honeymoon over than Baxter plunges into business, intent on amassing one of the huge fortunes that are rising everywhere. Baxter insists he cannot take a vacation, and Myrna goes off to Maine alone. Returning, she finds that Baxter hasn't attended so strictly to business—a compact, lingerie, are proof of his guilt. "Things like that happen all the time," says Myrna, in effect. "You see them on the stage, you read about them in books—but they only happen once to me!" This is the first crisis in their marriage. For the first time they really begin to understand how much they mean to each other.

Baxter plunges even more frenziedly into high finance. A series of Park Avenue apartments, increasingly beautiful, reflect the rising tide of Baxter's wealth. Baxter is on top of the world. Ian Hunter looks on, pleased that Myrna has the things she always dreamed of having; regretting Baxter's evident neglect of his lovely wife.

Their baby is born—and dies—the market crashes. Baxter is whipped, beaten, unable to comprehend. They move to a shabby suburban cottage. Myrna gladly because of her love for her husband, but Baxter falls to fully understand what has happened. He blindly insists that former conditions will return—and takes to drinking.

Hunter snaps Baxter out of it, finally, when Myrna discovers her husband accepting money from his friend. Filled with good intentions, Warner gets a job as clerk in a department store. A celebration is planned for Christmas Eve. Dead tired at the

"PEPPER"

Kicking shins, hurling tomatoes, busting windows and getting everybody in an uproar, Jane Withers, in all her glory, goes on a riotous rampage of mischief and merriment in "Pepper," her new Twentieth Century-Fox picture, which opens to-day at the Alhambra Theatre.

Aided and abetted by Irvin S. Cobb and Slim Summerville, "Ginger" Jane puts the "miss" in mischief, the "pep" in "Pepper" and the laughter in your life as a half-pint Robin Hood of lower New York who, when she isn't providing a volcanic eruption of excitement in the neighbourhood, cures a dyspeptic old millionaire, rights wrongs, and exposes a gang of fakers posing as nobility.

Celebrating the Fourth of July by leading a crowd of kids through the streets, Jane comes upon a family being evicted. Jane rushes to the rescue, but finds that the young mother needs eleven dollars to pay the rent.

Jane dispatches her gang on a collection tour, but a meeting later discloses that they have raised only six dollars. Disconsolate, Jane is walking through the streets when she passes a palatial mansion. Jane is trying to talk her way past the gatekeeper when Irvin S. Cobb, the owner, drives up. He refuses to even talk to the kids and they retaliate by pelting him with a collection of overripe vegetables.

Jane crawls into the house through a window, and, by threatening Cobb with her unerring aim, she blackmails him out of the necessary five dollars. Cobb, harassed by his daughter, doctor and servants, sees a kindred spirit for fun in Jane and they wind up at Coney Island, shooting the chutes, riding the roller coaster and having a high old time in general!

"A WOMAN REBELS"

The tragic results of a woman's defiance of hidebound conventions are woven into a fascinating drama for Katharine Hepburn and Herbert Marshall in "A Woman Rebels."

Miss Hepburn sensitively portrays the role of a young English woman who refuses meekly to swallow the dictum that she shall wed whomever her father selects, that she shall consider herself in terror to man, that she shall not enter business.

The crisis involved is that her courageous action threatens to affect the career of the man she loves, played by Marshall.

Her fight for happiness presents a tragedy-touched tale that gives colourful roles to Elizabeth Allan as her sister, Donald Crisp as her father, Doris Dudley as her daughter, David Manners as her brother-in-law and Van Heflin as the man in her past.

The story originally appeared as a novel, "Portrait of a Rebel," by Neta Syrett, British authoress, and was adapted for the screen by Anthony Veiller and Ernest Vajda. In their first screen appearance together, Miss Hepburn and Marshall are directed by Mark Sandrich as a Pandro S. Berman production for RKO Radio. "A Woman Rebels" has its run to-day at the Queen's Theatre.

WOMEN ARE TROUBLE

In the parlance of their craft, reporters refer to particularly generous journals as "a newspaper man's newspaper." By the same reasoning, they may now post their claim on a picture.

"Women Are Trouble" is its title and it is showing at the Majestic Theatre.

It is a story of modern reporting in an average American city. Its artist lies in the fact that never is it overplayed. Whatever they say outside, newspaper men admit among themselves that there is fun in the business, if not fortune. Otherwise they would quit it for some more tranquil profession, such as hauling nitro-glycerine or airplane testing.

Stuart Erwin enacts the star reporter, admirably and without affectation. Florence Rice, the daughter of Grandland Rice, famous newspaper sports writer, plays the girl reporter true to type and Paul Kelly is the city editor whose only fear is his weekly alimony payment. The balance of the cast gives a performance in keeping with the story.

end of a rushing day, Baxter finds a note in his envelope discharging him. Disconsolate, he starts for home and meets Claire Trevor, his former girl-friend. Claire and he have a drink—another—and finally wind up in a night club. At home, Myrna sobs over her ruined dinner.

CHRISTMAS DAY TRAGEDY

Mrs. Anderson's Death Recalled

The fatal motor accident which occurred on Christmas Day on Castle Peak Road, as the result of which Mrs. Gertrude Ella Anderson was killed, was recalled when the enquiry into the circumstances surrounding her death was continued in the District Office South yesterday. Mr. G. S. Kennedy-Skipiton, the District Officer, sat as Coroner and was assisted by a jury comprising Messrs. F. G. Barros (foreman), W. C. Tillery, Jr. and Lam Hew-cho.

The inquiry commenced on Thursday when evidence heard was to the effect that the lorry carrying some projecting rods went at about 20 miles per hour towards the car in which deceased was travelling and which was going at about 10 miles per hour. The projecting rods tore off the hood of the car, and one of the rods struck deceased who died on the spot. Mrs. Brennan sat at the back of the car with deceased.

Formal evidence was heard yesterday when the hearing was resumed, after the Coroner and the jury visited the scene of the accident.

It was intimated that the driver of the truck will give evidence at the next hearing which was fixed for Thursday next at 2.15 p.m.

January Sessions Conclude

The last case on the Criminal Sessions calendar was heard before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Supreme Court yesterday afternoon.

The accused, Yiu Wun, woman, pleaded not guilty to a charge of possession of 1 ounce of crude heroin, 140 ounces of pink mass and 23,350 heroin pills at 105, Leighton Hill Road, on the night of December 12-13.

The jury empanelled comprised:—Messrs. L. A. Gutierrez (Foreman), Kong Chi Nai, A. J. Castro, J. N. Wong, V. C. Labrum, K. A. Kaluzhny and C. Bitzer.

Youth Admits Guilt

In his opening, Mr. M. J. Abbott, for the Crown, said that a youth, Li Pul, had already pleaded guilty to the indictment. He added that one of two front rooms in the premises was used as a heroin factory and at the time of the raid the only persons on the floor were Yiu Wun and a small girl. There was no electric light and the floor was sparsely furnished. Yiu Wun's hands were stained round the nails. When charged at the police station she stated that there were some heroin pills in the house but she did not herself make them. She was employed there as an amah.

Following the taking of evidence, the jury returned a 5 to 2 verdict of not guilty against Yiu Wun and she was allowed to go free.

His Lordship remarked that Li Pul, who had pleaded guilty, was only 15 years of age according to the front sheet also the Sessions calendar. His Lordship postponed sentence until the next Sessions. In the meantime further enquiries are to be made.

He was a member of the senior local office staff.

THE PHARMACY VICTIMISED

A bold thief made off with three packages of mycolactine from the Pharmacy on Thursday while all the clerks were busily engaged, and had gone as far as the Hong Kong Hotel when he was arrested.

Brought before Mr. J. A. Fraser at the Central Magistrate's Court yesterday for the theft, defendant admitted the charge and was sentenced to three weeks in goal with hard labour.

WOMEN FOUND NOT GUILTY

Heroin Charge Fails

The re-trial of two women, Tam Chu Lau, aged 34, and Ma Choi Wan, 55, on a charge of unlawful possession of a quantity of pink mass containing heroin and heroin pills at 39, Wongneichung Road, ground floor, on December 11, was heard before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, at the Criminal Sessions yesterday morning. Mr. M. J. Abbott conducted the Crown case while Mr. Leo D'Almada, jun., instructed by Mr. C. Y. Kwan, defended.

The following jury was empanelled:—Messrs. S. Simpson (Foreman), F. X. Soares, A. E. Eca da Silva, H. Way, Wei Tat, L. A. Martin and V. R. Gordon.

The charge alleged the possession of a quarter ounce of cocaine (being a salt of cocaine), 18 ounces of white mass being an admixture of cocaine and diacetylmorphine, 432 pills being a similar admixture, two ounces of diacetylmorphine, 48 ounces of pink mass containing diacetylmorphine and 37,054 pills containing diacetylmorphine, or heroin.

Mr. Abbott described the raid made by S.R.O. Grimmett, Mr. Taylor, Government Monopoly Analyst, and party, and stated that one of seven rooms on the premises was being used as a heroin factory. The first accused was the only person on the premises and while investigations were being made the second accused entered by the back door, carrying a parcel containing sugar of milk. The first accused's finger nails were engraved with pink mass while the second accused's finger nails were slightly stained pink. When charged both stated that their employer, a woman, named Yue, had gone to the country owing to the death of her mother. On the second accused was found a jacket with two deep pockets in the front and five smaller pockets in the back.

After evidence, both accused gave testimony from the witness box stating that they were merely employed as servants.

Following submissions both by Mr. Abbott and Mr. D'Almada, his Lordship summed up.

The jury retired at 3.15 and returned at 3.45 p.m. bringing in a unanimous verdict of not guilty against Tam Chu Lau and a similar verdict by 6 to 1 against Ma Choi Wan.

Both defendants were discharged.

BIG NAVAL PROGRAMME

Expiration Of Two Treaties

The year 1937 will see the beginning of big programmes of warship construction by nearly every naval power in the world, for on the last day of 1936 two important treaties which limited building—particularly of capital ships—expired.

They are the Washington Treaty of 1922 and the London Treaty of 1930. With their expiration there will be virtually no control by treaty of the naval programmes of any of the Powers, though by the Anglo-German Agreement of 1935 the German fleet is limited to an aggregate tonnage of 35 per cent. of the British.

The Three-Power London Naval Treaty of 1936, which emerged from the Five-Power Conference, came into force on January 2.

The signatories to the agreement are Great Britain, and the United States.

Sizes Limited

The United States has already ratified it, and the formalities of ratification by the other two Powers will be observed shortly. Japan and Italy were unable to join in, but agreement of other Powers is being sought through bilateral arrangements between Britain, Germany, Russia, Poland, Norway, and Sweden.

The Three-Power Treaty limits sizes of ships and calibre of guns as follows:—

Capital ships—55,000 tons, 14-inch guns.

Aircraft carriers—23,000 tons, 6-inch guns.

Cruisers—8,000 tons, 6-inch guns.

Submarines—2,000 tons, 5-inch guns.

No quantitative agreement was reached.

The Treaty also provides for the exchange of information upon building programmes in order, as

NEW MORAL CREED

World's Need Of "Mateyness"

What the world wants is more "mateyness," according to Dr. James A. Bowie, principal of the Dundee School of Economics.

Speaking at a conference of the Industrial Section of the Students' Christian Movement at Birmingham, he contended that nothing could save mankind except a new moral creed. But a new spirit would be ineffectual unless it was worked into the social system.

"In building the New Jerusalem there will be more tolerance, less bad temper and backbiting, more courage and hope and faithfulness," he said.

"Social salvation can be found in no mere outward change of system, nor in any political nostrum, but only when men practise that virtue which in theology is called righteousness, in law justice, and in the common life of men mateyness."

The Pact

Britain and Italy have "made it up."

An agreement was signed a few days ago by the British Ambassador in Rome and the Italian Foreign Minister, in which the two countries avow their intentions of being good neighbours in the Mediterranean.

What has made this avowal necessary? A few years ago such an exchange of assurances would have seemed as superfluous as the signing of a deed by affectionate cousins guaranteeing not to stab one another in the back. The establishment in Italy of a totalitarian regime, contrary though it was to British ideals of government, did nothing to weaken the peaceful understanding between these two States—the State whose territory lay out-thrust into the Mediterranean Sea, and the State whose highways of Empire lie across that Sea.

Did Britain, then, at some moment in the past few years, contemplate an act of aggression against Italy? Did Italy suddenly challenge a vital British interest? Was either of these the cause of the quarrel which grew so bitter that the burying of the hatchet has required a formal documentary "epitaph?"

No. It was not that way. What started it all was that Italy had a dispute with the Amharic rulers of the African country called Abyssinia, and pressed the dispute to the point of war. Britain was a member of the League of Nations. The League adjudged Abyssinia a victim of aggression, and set about helping her by imposing economic sanctions against Italy.

In this process Britain played a leading part. She did so despite the fact that no British interest was involved in the dispute between Abyssinia and Italy. She did so despite the fact that members of the Government had deep misgivings about the efficacy and wisdom of the "collective security" policy—misgivings which the Prime Minister himself had openly expressed. It was Mr. Anthony Eden, Britain's young Minister for League of Nations Affairs, who made the running in Geneva and in Downing-street. His resounding speeches committed the Government to apply collective security, delighted the League of Nations Union, and encouraged Abyssinia's rulers to believe that Britain would back them to the end.

Britain's sole practical endeavour on Abyssinia's behalf—the Hoare-Laval pact, acceptance of which would have stopped the war and preserved half his kingdom for the Abyssinian Emperor—was defeated by a wave of pro-League enthusiasm in this country. The intimidated Government dropped the plan, dropped Sir Samuel Hoare, gave his job to Mr. Eden, and continued sanctions.

And what came of it all? Miners in South Wales went jobless because there was no longer a coal trade with Italy. The Emperor of Abyssinia, finding to his horror that Britain was not prepared to follow up economic sanctions with military help, fled his throne. Meanwhile the deterioration in Anglo-

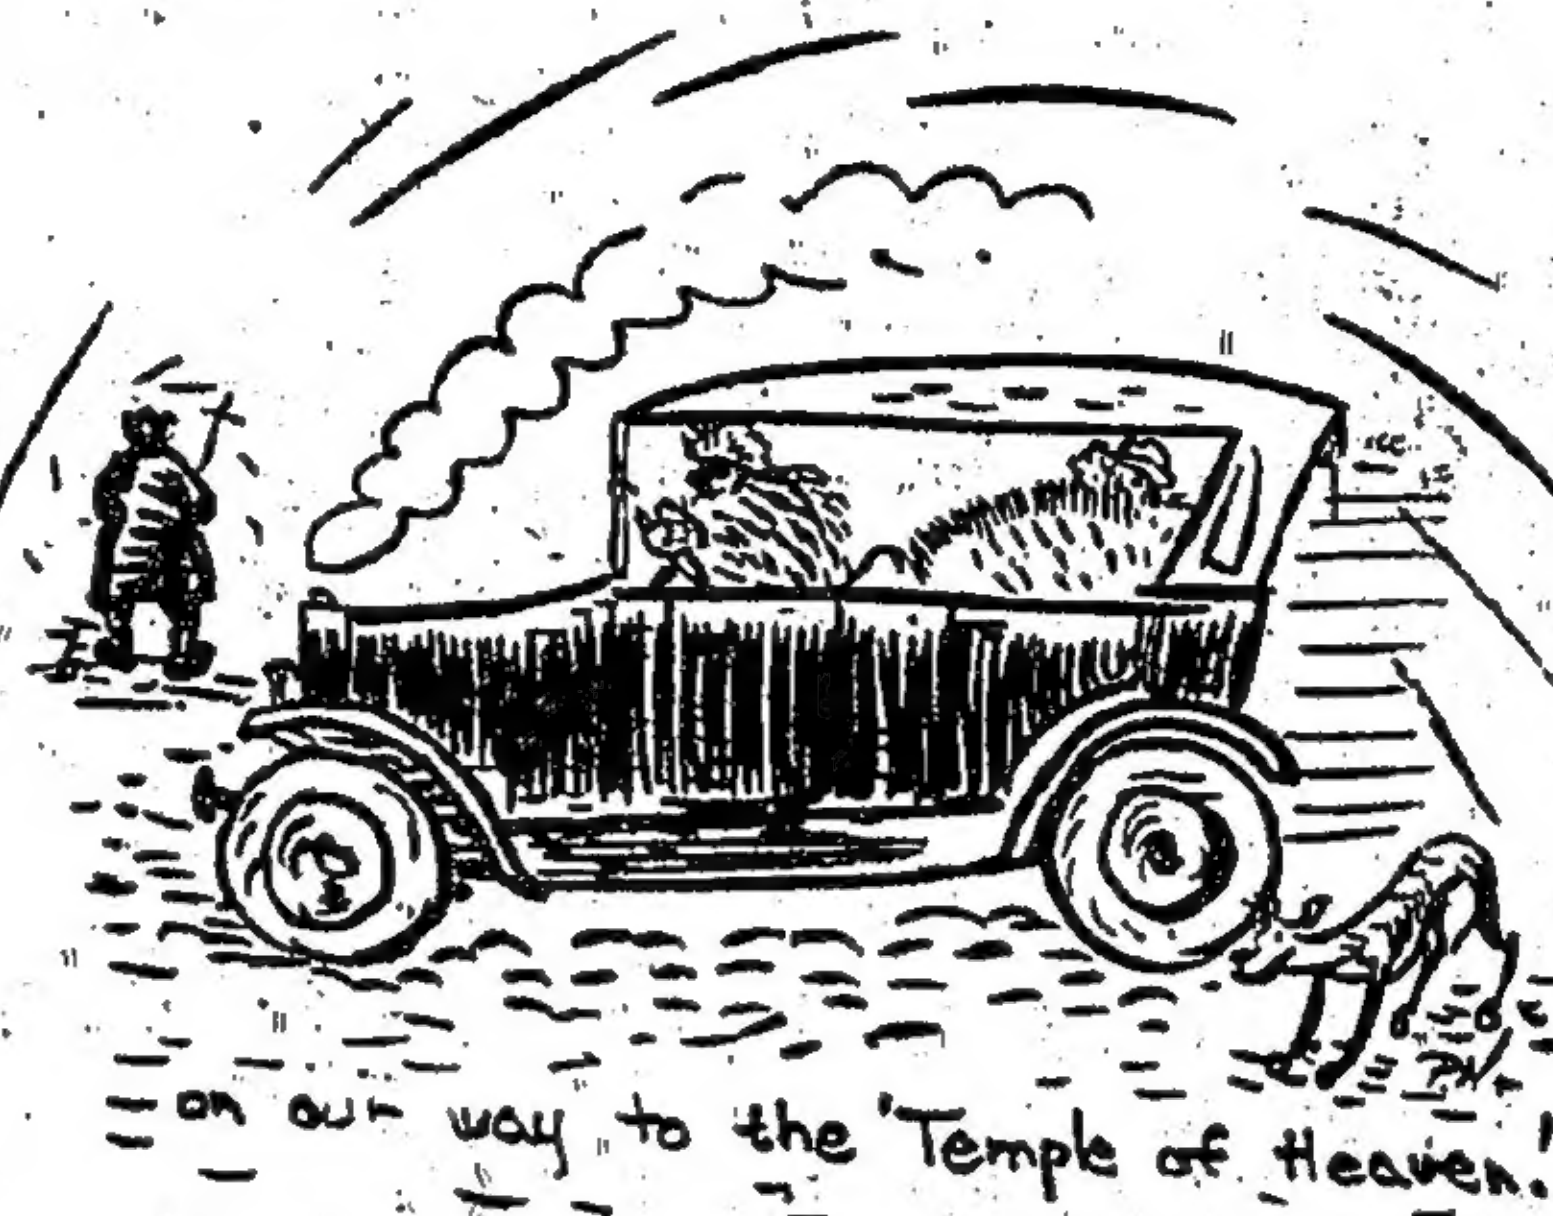

EXCLUSIVE FEATURE

DIVERTING ASPECTS

THE TEMPLE OF HEAVEN

BY PHILIP NESBITT

Human conceptions of "heaven" make interesting subject matter. The mass of nerve-torn mortals abiding on the globe must, by all odds, conjure up some antidote against the hardships of existence. Most frequently heaven consists of what we haven't got. Hell is always with us... which is perhaps the real reason why, subconsciously, we think in terms of an eventual heaven. The Polynesian's heaven undoubtedly is a realm where "poi" comes to be had without the effort of preparing it. The Hebrew heaven is anything that hasn't the barrenness of Jerusalem's dusty hillsides and thorn bushes... but China... China... with the deepest of all the humanities... with her pageant of legends and ceremonies... with her surging multitudes and immortal soul, has a conception of heaven in material form which so exceeds all others as to leave the fortunate visitor with throbbing pulse and delighted heart.

They (ardent world travellers) who have seen the mosque of St. Sophia in Constantinople, are brimmed with awe and admiration... yet the "Temple of Heaven" as it is in Peiping, is greater, more lovely, more colourful, I believe, than any other earthly structure dedicated to a conception of heaven known to us.

I must tell the whole of it. One morning in Peiping, not very long ago (snow lay on the ground and the air was like the cutting edge of a carving knife) we set out for a visit to the Temple of Heaven. The ancient, rumbling car of the American Embassy stood at the gate of the house where I lived. We wrapped ourselves in a comforting wolf-skin robe and started off.

Peiping proper has a thousand or two angular, narrow lanes which serve as streets. We honked, rumbled and fought our way past the padding, ricksha runners, past the street called "Jade street," and down that teeming thoroughfare where the brass shops and the treasure houses are, until we left the city. And yet we were still in Peiping. Several turnings were made out in snow-swept open land, and after passing through a forest of starving trees, we attained a closeness to the great temple.

Surely this... this glittering series of blue (ultramarine) temple buildings and spacious marble surfaces is the most perfect example of man-made architecture (ever). From a certain position in the centre of a flat, lifted an immense disc of marble, with good, large-bronze incense burners artfully laid out in mathematical and mystic fashion, we looked down a mile-long vista. Several red-gated arches with outspread wings of marble, straddled the wide avenue.

The Chinese constructed these "places of worship with the most cunning skill... utilizing, oddly enough, as the main supporting, inner pillars of the big round temples, fine Oregon fir and spruce logs, straight and majestic. No reluctance, either, is evident in the generous use of gold leaf upon the ceiling surface

Italian relationships had necessitated, alarming precautionary movements of the British Fleet; newspapers in each country furiously blackguarded the other; the prospect of war between the two Powers was openly canvassed.

And to-day? Italy has all Abyssinia. The Emperor is selling his household goods, by auction. Sir Samuel Hoare, vindicated by events, has been received back with honour into the Government. In Rome, at Mr. Eden's instruction, Sir Eric Drummond draws up a goodwill pact with Italy. Count Ciano, who fought as an airman against Abyssinia, signs the pact on Mussolini's behalf. A crazy and humiliating chapter in our history is closed.

BILLS OF LADING STAMP TAX

British Shippers Seek Exemption

Nanking, Jan. 22. The British Embassy has approached the Chinese government to exempt the British shipping concerns from attaching stamp tax to their bills of lading, according to information from well-informed circles to-day.

The request, it is understood, is made on the ground that the exemption enjoyed by government-operated shipping enterprises has put the British shipping merchants in a disadvantageous position. The Waichang, it is learned, had referred the matter to the Legislative Yuan. The finance committee of the legislature will shortly discuss the request of the British Embassy.

I now ask you, gentlemen, to drown your sorrow at the loss of Mr. Phillips' services in Canton, by joining me in drinking to his unqualified success in his new and important post in Shanghai. We thank him for the assistance he has so readily and ungrudgingly given us at all times, and we wish him an enjoyable and health-giving holiday in England. (Applause.)

MR. PHILLIPS REPLIES.

Mr. Phillips said: "Mr. Dodwell and members of the Chamber of Commerce and China Association Committee, I appreciate very highly this very great compliment you are paying me in inviting me to be your guest to-day just before I am leaving South China and going on leave, to return—not to the South—but to Shanghai.

"I have had the most pleasant relations with your members and with the leaders of the British community in Hong Kong. I have received the very greatest assistance from two Governors—Sir William Peel and Sir Andrew Caldecott—and especially from the leaders of the British community here."

With reference to the Chairman's remarks as to the very great loss which the Colony and the whole of South China, if not the Far East, was sustaining on the transfer of Sir Andrew Caldecott to Ceylon, Mr. Phillips said he agreed that this was a very severe blow and he could only assume that specially difficult problems in Ceylon required a very special Governor like Sir Andrew to deal with them. There was evidently a very strong feeling in this Colony on the subject of the transfer and many of his Chinese friends in Canton had in the last two days, expressed their deep disappointment at the loss of so distinguished a Governor and one who had made such a favourable impression amongst the Chinese.

Referring to his successor, Mr. Phillips expressed the hope that the Chamber and China Association would extend the fullest support to Mr. Blunt who was an old friend of his, and who had had a long experience in China.

"I want now again to assure you," concluded Mr. Phillips, "of my very great regret at leaving

TRADE MISSION DUE HERE

Party From Japan

A Japanese trade mission will visit Hong Kong and give an exhibition of Japanese products and manufactured goods at the Japanese Club for the week, from January 17 to 23, which will be open to the public.

Enquiries at the Japanese Consulate-General yesterday afternoon elicited the information that the mission will be composed of representatives of the Nagoya Commercial Museum and the Tea Exports Association of Japan. The party will pass through the Colony on its way to Manila where an exhibition of Japanese goods will be shown, following which they will come to Hong Kong.

It is further understood that the party presumably is on its way to the Leipzig Fair.

G. Clarke; Mr. R. M. C. Dobbs; Dr. G. V. Griffith; Mr. B. H. C. Hallows; Dr. G. H. Henry; Dr. R. B. Jackson; Surg. Lt. Comdr. J. G. Maguire; Mr. T. Megarry; Mr. J. P. Murphy; Mr. M. G. O'Connor; Mr. C. G. Perdue; Mr. G. S. Kennedy-Skipston; Mr. W. La B. Sparrow; The Revd. E. D. Staunton; Mr. E. G. Stewart; Major W. E. Tyndall, M.C.; Mr. E. H. Williams; Dr. L. Yang.

you all and I hope that we shall meet from time to time in Shanghai and continue the very close association that we have had all the time I have been in the South. When I go to Shanghai the support which I have had here will give me great encouragement in facing the responsibilities of a difficult post. I thank you most sincerely for the honour you have done me in making me your special guest to-day. I shall never forget, Mr. Dodwell, your exceedingly kind—in fact, all too generous—reference to myself. I thank you all." (Applause.)

and on the bodies of an army of fire-eating dragons clawing their way in endless circles around both the inside and the outside of the temple.

There is a quality... a mood... a sense of perfect things which permeates the Temple of Heaven. In fact, there is a heavenly spirit abiding within the marble and the beams, and in the delicate, limitless, essentially Chinese designs which decorate every inch in the thousands of square yards of surface of the temple buildings.

There is said to be a temple room in India, where abstract forms are so psychologically arranged as to have a same and singular effect upon all the eyes and minds which come upon them. Thus it is with People of Heaven. It is so perfectly arranged, so powerfully and delicately erected, so well coloured, so "heavenly" that all those who see it are impressed with a dream of heaven. It successfully touches whatever it is that we all possess of spirit, as to make us think of one thing—"Heaven."

Afterward, when we felt we had more than "taken in" the Temple of Heaven, we climbed into the rumbling car and fought our way through the bitter cold until we were among the smoking cook pots, the sweating ricksha boys and the beggars once more.

I think it was on this occasion that I purchased a little gold-plated bronze Goddess of Mercy. It seemed the right thing to do... to commemorate our visit to the one place in the world where the true spirit of what is "Heaven" seems to abide, the Temple of Heaven in Peiping.

YOUNG MARSHAL'S RELEASE DEMAND FROM KANSU CHAIRMAN

Message Telegraphed To Nanking

Peiping, January 22.

Immediate release and return to Sian of General Chang Hsueh-liang, who is now a "guest" in Fenghua, was demanded yesterday by General Yu Hsueh-chung, Chairman of the Kansu Provincial Government, and one of the leaders of last month's coup, according to reliable Chinese sources here.

The demand, these quarters revealed, was telegraphed by Gen. Yu to Gen. Han Fu-chu, Chairman of the Shantung Provincial Government, for transmission to the Central Government.

Reports received here, indicated continued preparations on the part of the recalcitrant forces, to oppose the advance by the Central troops.

Units commanded by General Yang Hu-chun, the rebel leader, and presently stationed around Sian, include: eight battalions of engineering troops; 11 regiments of artillery; four cavalry divisions; three regiments of special guards, and a gendarme battalion.

Strwn between Sian and the eastern border of the province are the 105th, 109th, 112th, 120th and the 125th divisions of General Chang's troops.

In addition to these forces, two insurgent divisions are stationed near Lanchow and Sillang, ready to ward off a blow from the west.

INDEPENDENCE AIMS

Shanghai, Jan. 22.

Efforts to evacuate foreigners from Lanchow, capital of Kansu, will probably be made during the next few days.

The troops of General Yu Hsueh-chung, Pacification Commissioner of Kansu, have definitely gone over to the Reds, after sitting on the fence for some time.

It is believed that Yang Hu-cheng, rebel leader of Chang Hsueh-liang's former army, and the Communists of the north, intend to join forces with the idea of establishing eventually an independent state in Shensi and Kansu. This was the opinion expressed by Mr. R. W. Middleton, China Inland Mission missionary, on his arrival here from Sian.

Mr. Middleton doubted whether any of the three groups would be likely to fight against Japan. It appeared they were only using the anti-Japanese war cry as a subterfuge.

If an independent state is established in the North-west it would probably be joined by Inner Mongolia and Sinkiang, both of which are already under Red influence. In order to carry out this object, Yang Hu-cheng's forces have already commenced preparations for the struggle, storing up food and supplies of all kinds.

Mr. Middleton said the combined strength of the three groups was estimated at about 250,000 men.

GIANT PINCERS

Shanghai, Jan. 22.

While representatives of the Nanking Government and the recalcitrant North-Western generals are continuing negotiations in Loyang and Nanking, the Central Armies have completed their preparations for a military "squeeze," according to reports received here to-day.

The Nanking's forces are now in the position of giant pincers, with one grasping jaw pressing from the borders of Kansu and Ninghsia and the other pressing from the borders of Shansi and Honan.

The forces marching against the rebel units are led by Generals Hu Tsung-nan and Kuan Lin-chang. The troops advancing on Sian from the East are the Thirteenth and the Eighty-Fourth Armies, commanded by Generals Tang En-po and Kuo Kwei-tzu and the Eighty-Sixth Division headed by General Chen Cheng, Vice-Minister of War.

JAPANESE COMMENT

Shanghai, Jan. 22.

Three political factions, headed respectively by Mr. Wang Ching-wai, former president of the Executive Yuan; General Ho Ying-chin, Minister of War; and General Hsiung Hsi-hui, chairman of Kiangsi, are likely to combine in an attempt to curb the rising star of Mr. T. V. Soong, Governor of the Bank of China, and his adherents comprising the "Westernized clique" of the Nanking Government, the "Shanghai Mainichi" said yesterday.

KEELUNG INCIDENT

Question Pending In Commons

London, Jan. 22.

Captain A. C. Graham (Con. Wirral) will be asking Mr. Anthony Eden in the House of Commons on January 25 whether the Japanese Government has yet given any proof of the desire officially expressed in the Diet speech for furtherance of the traditional friendship between Britain and Japan by tendering a satisfactory apology for the Keelung incident.

Sir Charles Cawsey (Con., Chester) will put a question on the same subject by asking if the Japanese Government has now tendered full satisfaction to the British Government.

DR. SCHACHT'S BIRTHDAY

Tributes Paid By German Press

Berlin, Jan. 22.

On the occasion of the 60th birthday of the President of the Reichsbank and German Minister of Economics, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, the German press devotes considerable space dealing with his life and work. The "Berliner Boersenzettel" writes that Dr. Schacht realises that before the economic life of the world can be reorganised, the responsible politicians must first create the essential political conditions. The words of Dr. Schacht at the Ibero-American Institute's meeting in Hamburg in 1935, illustrates this view. Dr. Schacht said: "Political suppression and commercial jealousy between the countries have most largely contributed to the breakdown in world economics. It can only take a turn for the better, after it has universally been realised that only equality of rights and equal respect in the economic sphere are the foundations for sound international economic life."

The "Lokal Anzeiger" emphasises the valuable work of Dr. Schacht in the work creation scheme and the militarisation for the country by providing the necessary financial means. It should, the paper continues, not be forgotten, that in these cases it proved valuable to have the posts of President of the Reichsbank and Minister of Economics united in one hand. This was, the paper stresses, in fact essential for the favourable economic policy.

GOERING'S TELEGRAM

The High Commissioner for the German Four Year Plan, General Goering, has sent a telegram, worded in very cordial terms, to Dr. Schacht from Italy on the occasion of the latter's birthday.

Hamada Threatens To Commit Hara-Kiri

Tokyo, Jan. 22.

Yielding to pressure of the fighting services, the Cabinet decided to ask the Emperor to dissolve the Diet to-morrow in consequence of the hostility of political parties towards the Government.

The decision was reached at a four-hour meeting amid an atmosphere so tense that the entire Metropolitan police force had to be mobilised to protect the members of the Cabinet and parliamentary leaders.

The Cabinet's choice of dissolution rather than resignation represents a signal victory on the part of Army leaders whose interference in politics is bitterly criticised by political parties.

The Diet yesterday was temporarily suspended following vitriolic scenes in the Lower House in which the Government was violently attacked.

Mr. Hamada, veteran member of the Seiyukai party, declared that the Army's pretensions at reform of the political system were completely unjustified. The War Minister accused Mr. Hamada of insulting the Army, whereupon the veteran threatened to commit hara-kiri.

The Navy chiefs decided to support the Army's stand.

MOTOR STRIKE DISCUSSIONS

Peace Efforts Fail At Washington

Washington, Jan. 22.

The conferences in the motor strike between officials of the Department of Labour, representatives of the Committee of Industrial Organisation and officials of General Motors Corporation have collapsed. The future of the negotiations has been left in the hands of the President by both parties who left the capital.

Mr. Sloan, President of General Motors, before leaving, said: "We will return any time President Roosevelt sends for us."

Mr. John Lewis, workers' negotiator, when asked whether he thought the time was ripe for presidential intervention, declared that it is up to the President—but labour intervened for him during the election.

Lively Discussion At Geneva

Geneva, Jan. 22.

The Chilean motion, that the question of refugees who are at present staying in the Embassies, Legations and Consulates of the various powers in Madrid, was subject to lively discussion to-day. The matter will be discussed by the present session of the League.

The motion was opposed by the Foreign Minister of the Valencia Government, del Vayo, and he was supported by Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet Foreign Commissar. The latter declared that the right of asylum, such as the Chilean and other Embassies were demanding, had never existed in Madrid. The Cuban Government supported the Chilean motion in a note to the League Council, declaring that Cuba was highly interested in the question and sincerely hoped that the League would find a solution to this, truly distressing state of affairs.

The question was finally placed among the humanitarian problems to be dealt with by the Hygiene Committee.

BADMINTON LEAGUE RESULTS

A feature of last night's Mixed Doubles of the Badminton League was the convincing victory of R. G. Xavier, over their "B" team.

The "A" team literally swept their opponents off their feet in a 2-0 win.

Cricket

(BY L. B. W.)

The best cricket match of the afternoon will probably be that between the holders of the Senior Division Shield, Kowloon Cricket Club, and the Hong Kong Cricket Club who will have the advantage of playing on their own ground.

It is almost impossible for two strong teams like these to play to a finish in an afternoon and for that reason I forecast a draw. I see that "Acl" Bowker is playing fairly regularly again for the Club and his presence in the side should considerably strengthen the attack. F. (Peanut) Marshall who, I presume, is down here for the Annual Race Meeting, is playing for the Club and he should stiffen an already strong batting side. The two players who would probably score the most runs for their respective sides this afternoon are Alec Pearce for the Club and Ernie Fincher for Kowloon.

The game between the Army and the Navy should end in a win for the former in view of the fact that the Navy will not be at full strength, most of the players being away at Singapore for the combined manoeuvres.

By the way, I hear that Lieut. Frowse, that very popular Navy bowler, left for home by the troopship Lancashire. He had been a tower of strength to the Navy attack for the past couple of seasons, and more should be heard of his cricket activities at home.

The Indian Recreation Club will have a difficult task this afternoon if they are to maintain their 100 per cent record. They take on the Civil Service Cricket Club but will be without two of their regular players—A. H. Madar and A. S. Suffad. The team will not be the same without Madar who is not only their best bat but also their most dangerous bowler. I am not forgetting that fact that A. R. Minu has carried the team through to a great extent so far, but whenever there is a partnership to be broken up, Madar invariably does the trick. As it is now, Minu will be the only bowler in the side this afternoon. It is true that they have M. el Arculli and A. E. Abbas but they are not quite the type of bowlers that one would expect to do well against: really good bats, and they have J. E. Richardson, A. E. Perry, D. McLeish and W. H. Colledge to contend with to-day. The chances are that the match will end in a draw but a Civil Service victory will not surprise me at all. In the only other Senior Division game of the afternoon, Craigengower should make short work of the University who are very weak this season.

THE JUNIORS

Kowloon Cricket Club should take the points from the H.K.C.C. in their Second Division encounter this afternoon while if the Police beat the Indians (and I am of the opinion that they will) they will enhance their chances of bringing off the championship in this division.

The Army "A" meet Civil Service at Sookunpoo and should win while Craigengower and the Navy will probably prove too good for the University and Club de Recreo respectively.

Hockey

(BY R. H. B.)

I am in receipt of interesting information regarding the Interport ladies hockey match to be played between Hong Kong and Shanghai in the Colony next month. The Shanghai team was announced through Reuter on Tuesday.

A commentator writing on ladies hockey in a local contemporary last month made reference to the fact that the Shanghai Ladies Hockey Association had not started their League matches and also had not given the Interport problem a thought. I am authoritatively informed that League games were commenced towards the end of November and Interport trials were in full swing in the middle of December.

The Shanghai team as announced contains several new-comers. They are Pein, Petigara, Nora Kelly, Debbie Bloomfield, Barbara Dunlap, Lottie Schmidt, Margery Williams. The remainder, comprising Esther Bloomfield, Frances Bomko, Evelyn Vical, Jean Mc-

Keown (nee Bloomfield) Laura Carlon, Elsie Little, Mary Sheridan, who will be playing centre forward was included in the Rest team in Shanghai last year. In 1935, she was selected for the Interport but unfortunately could not make the trip.

When Shanghai visited Hong Kong in 1935 they fielded the following team:— Gladys Ephgrave; Frances Bomko, Evelyn Vical; Esther Bloomfield, Hilde Gunther, Cecile Getz; Hilda Collaco, Claire Nichols, Decima Eardley, Amanda Collaco and Jean Raeburn.

Last year's team was:— Laura Carlon; Esther Bloomfield Evelyn Vical; Frances Bomko, Dorothy Forshaw, Margaret McCracken; Elsie Little, Martha McCracken, Jean Bloomfield, Elsie McCracken, Ursula Berg.

Much has been written about the financial difficulties facing the Shanghai ladies' trip to Hong Kong and the following extracts from an editorial comment in the North China Daily News will be read with interest:— The hockey player does not insist on "gates" any more than the rugby club did in the days which old staggers may be permitted to consider were better, despite the glories of Twickenham. Yet the sinews of war have to be found and here in Shanghai the club subscriptions may not always provide them adequately. It will be remembered that, last year, the Shanghai Hockey women entertained but were defeated by a team from Hong Kong. They vindicated Shanghai's reputation for hospitality by drawing on the funds of their Association but arrangements for making the visit assist in paying for itself by holding a dance had to be abandoned. Now Hong Kong wishes to entertain the Shanghai women in return and to see whether the results of the matches played here can be reversed on Hong Kong soil.

It would be a thousand pities if this genuine sporting engagement could not be kept, but the Shanghai women are nearly all working women in the exact sense of the term. They cannot afford to bear the cost of transport and their Association, for reasons already given, has not the funds to meet it. The estimated figure of $1,000 will enable the Shanghai women to accept Hong Kong's invitation, travel to the Island, and it is hoped win back the hockey "ashes" or whatever the trophy may be. They have been practising hard.

If some of the many sporting organisations in Shanghai could find it in their hearts to give these women colleagues comradely assistance they would be making a gesture which would be much appreciated.

It would be unfortunate if for the want of a few dollars—for what is $1,000 among so many sportsmen and sportswomen?—the Women's Interport Hockey contest had to be abandoned.

The two Shanghai goalkeepers, Barbara Dunlap and Laura Carlon, have both shown good form in the trials, the former possibly being a little faster on her feet. The latter, however, has had considerably more experience.

Meanwhile, the Hong Kong team has not been announced though it is safe to say that the nucleus of the eleven is practically known. Probable certainties are Misses E.M. Gray, O. Dalziel, M. Smith, L.L. Woolley, B.M. Pope and Mrs. Donald.

By scoring three of the Y.M.C.A. Ladies' four goals against the Recreo on Saturday last Miss M. Smith now heads the list of goal scorers with eight to her credit. Mrs. M. Read, also of the Y. Ladies is now second with six goals and Miss P. Gittins (St. Andrew's) and Mrs. Donald (H.K. Ladies) share third place with five goals each.

Last Saturday's match between the Saints and the C. B. A. Ladies was not up to the standard expected. The C.B.A. made a mistake by playing Miss F. Best in the forward line in the first half as she is essentially a goalkeeper. Miss F. Wong played a splendid game on the right wing for the Saints who won by three goals to nil. The Y. Ladies, who were without the services of their pivot, Miss E. Thompson and centre-forward, Mrs. M. Read, secured an easy win over the Recreo.

Soccer

By Jay Martin

Because of the Governor's Cup tie between the Hong Kong Football Association and the Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation at Caroline Hill to-morrow, a big programme of First Division games has been arranged for to-day. Several of the games are guaranteed to prove sufficiently attractive to whet the appetites of local soccer fans.

SENIOR SHIELD REPLAY

Main interest will be centred in the match between St. Joseph's and Club Recreo, which takes place this afternoon at King's Park. In addition to being a league fixture, the encounter between the two First Division teams will also count as the re-play of the Senior Shield.

Recreo is fielding fairly the same team as last week, with the exception of "Ed" Silva who is making his reappearance on the playing field after a long absence on account of an injury which he received early in the season. The line-up, however, has been altered, with their forward line strengthened by the inclusion of both the Gosano brothers. Recreo's attacking machine will have to be seriously watched by their opponents. In the intermediate rank, C. Marques, Beltao and V. Marques should combine to make a splendid defence trio. Although Recreo has not played up to St. Joseph's standard during the season, they must be reckoned with if St. Joseph's want to assure a victory for themselves.

"TROUBLE" FOR POLICE

South China "A" should have no difficulty to account for the police at Caroline Hill. Led by Lee Wai-tong, South China "A" last week revealed their best form and a reputation of it will probably spell serious trouble for the Police who have been more than unfortunate this season in losing some of their best players. The latter will certainly fight back hard and spectators at this match should be treated to a play that should not be below the standard of South China "A".

EASTERN v. CLUB

The encounter between Eastern and the Club at Causeway Bay should result favourably for the latter. The Eastern have not been at all impressive during past games while the Club have been showing promise of developing a better type of play.

NAVY NOT TOO STRONG

A real topping game should be witnessed between the Rifles and the Navy at Chatham Road. The League leaders were not duly impressive week but it is no guess who would be the winner of this encounter. The Navy gave a sparkling display last week-end despite a sadly weakened team, due to the departure of the Fleet from Hong Kong waters. They fielded a team largely composed of Tamar players, which, if they do again to-day, should make the Rifles work really hard to earn their two points.

KOWLOON AT HOME

Kowloon playing at home is fielding their usual team to-day against South China "B." Min-hinnett, who was absent from between the sticks last week, will again be seen in action. For some unaccountable reason this player was dropped from last week's team but it is hoped that he will remain a permanent figure to the goalmouth with the Kowloon side. On the hand, South China "B" should find Kowloon giving them strong opposition but it is expected that they will have no hard time to overcome the home team.

ATHLETICS FAVOURED

The match between Chinese Athletic and Kowloon Chinese at Sookunpoo should prove an easy one for the Athletics, whose form during recent weeks have been of a high standard. The Kowloon Chinese have not been at all impressive and should, therefore, prove an easy mark for the Athletics.

The big game will, of course, be to-morrow at Caroline Hill when the Hong Kong Football Association meets the Chinese Amateur Athletic Association. All roads should lead to Caroline Hill to-morrow where the encounter is to take place and to guess which side should win would be somewhat foolish. Both the teams are well-balanced and even in strength so that soccer fans who attend this match should be treated to one of the finest displays of football yet to be seen this season.

Following are the teams:— H.K.F.A.: Rowlands (Army); A. V. Gosano (Recreo); Stevens (Army); North (Police); Beltao (Recreo); Elias (Kowloon); Erwin (Army); Leonard (St. Joseph's); Knox (Kowloon); Wilson (Club); Bickford (Club). C.A.A.F.: Pau Ka-Ping (South

M.C.C. BAT AT ADELAIDE

Two Thousand-Run Getters

Adelaide, Jan. 22.

A crowd of 8,000 watched the cricket match between the M.C.C. tourists and South Australia. The weather was cloudy but warm, and the wicket good.

Batting first, the M.C.C. carried their total to 239 for 6 at close of play, Wyatt contributing 52 not out and Barnett 78.

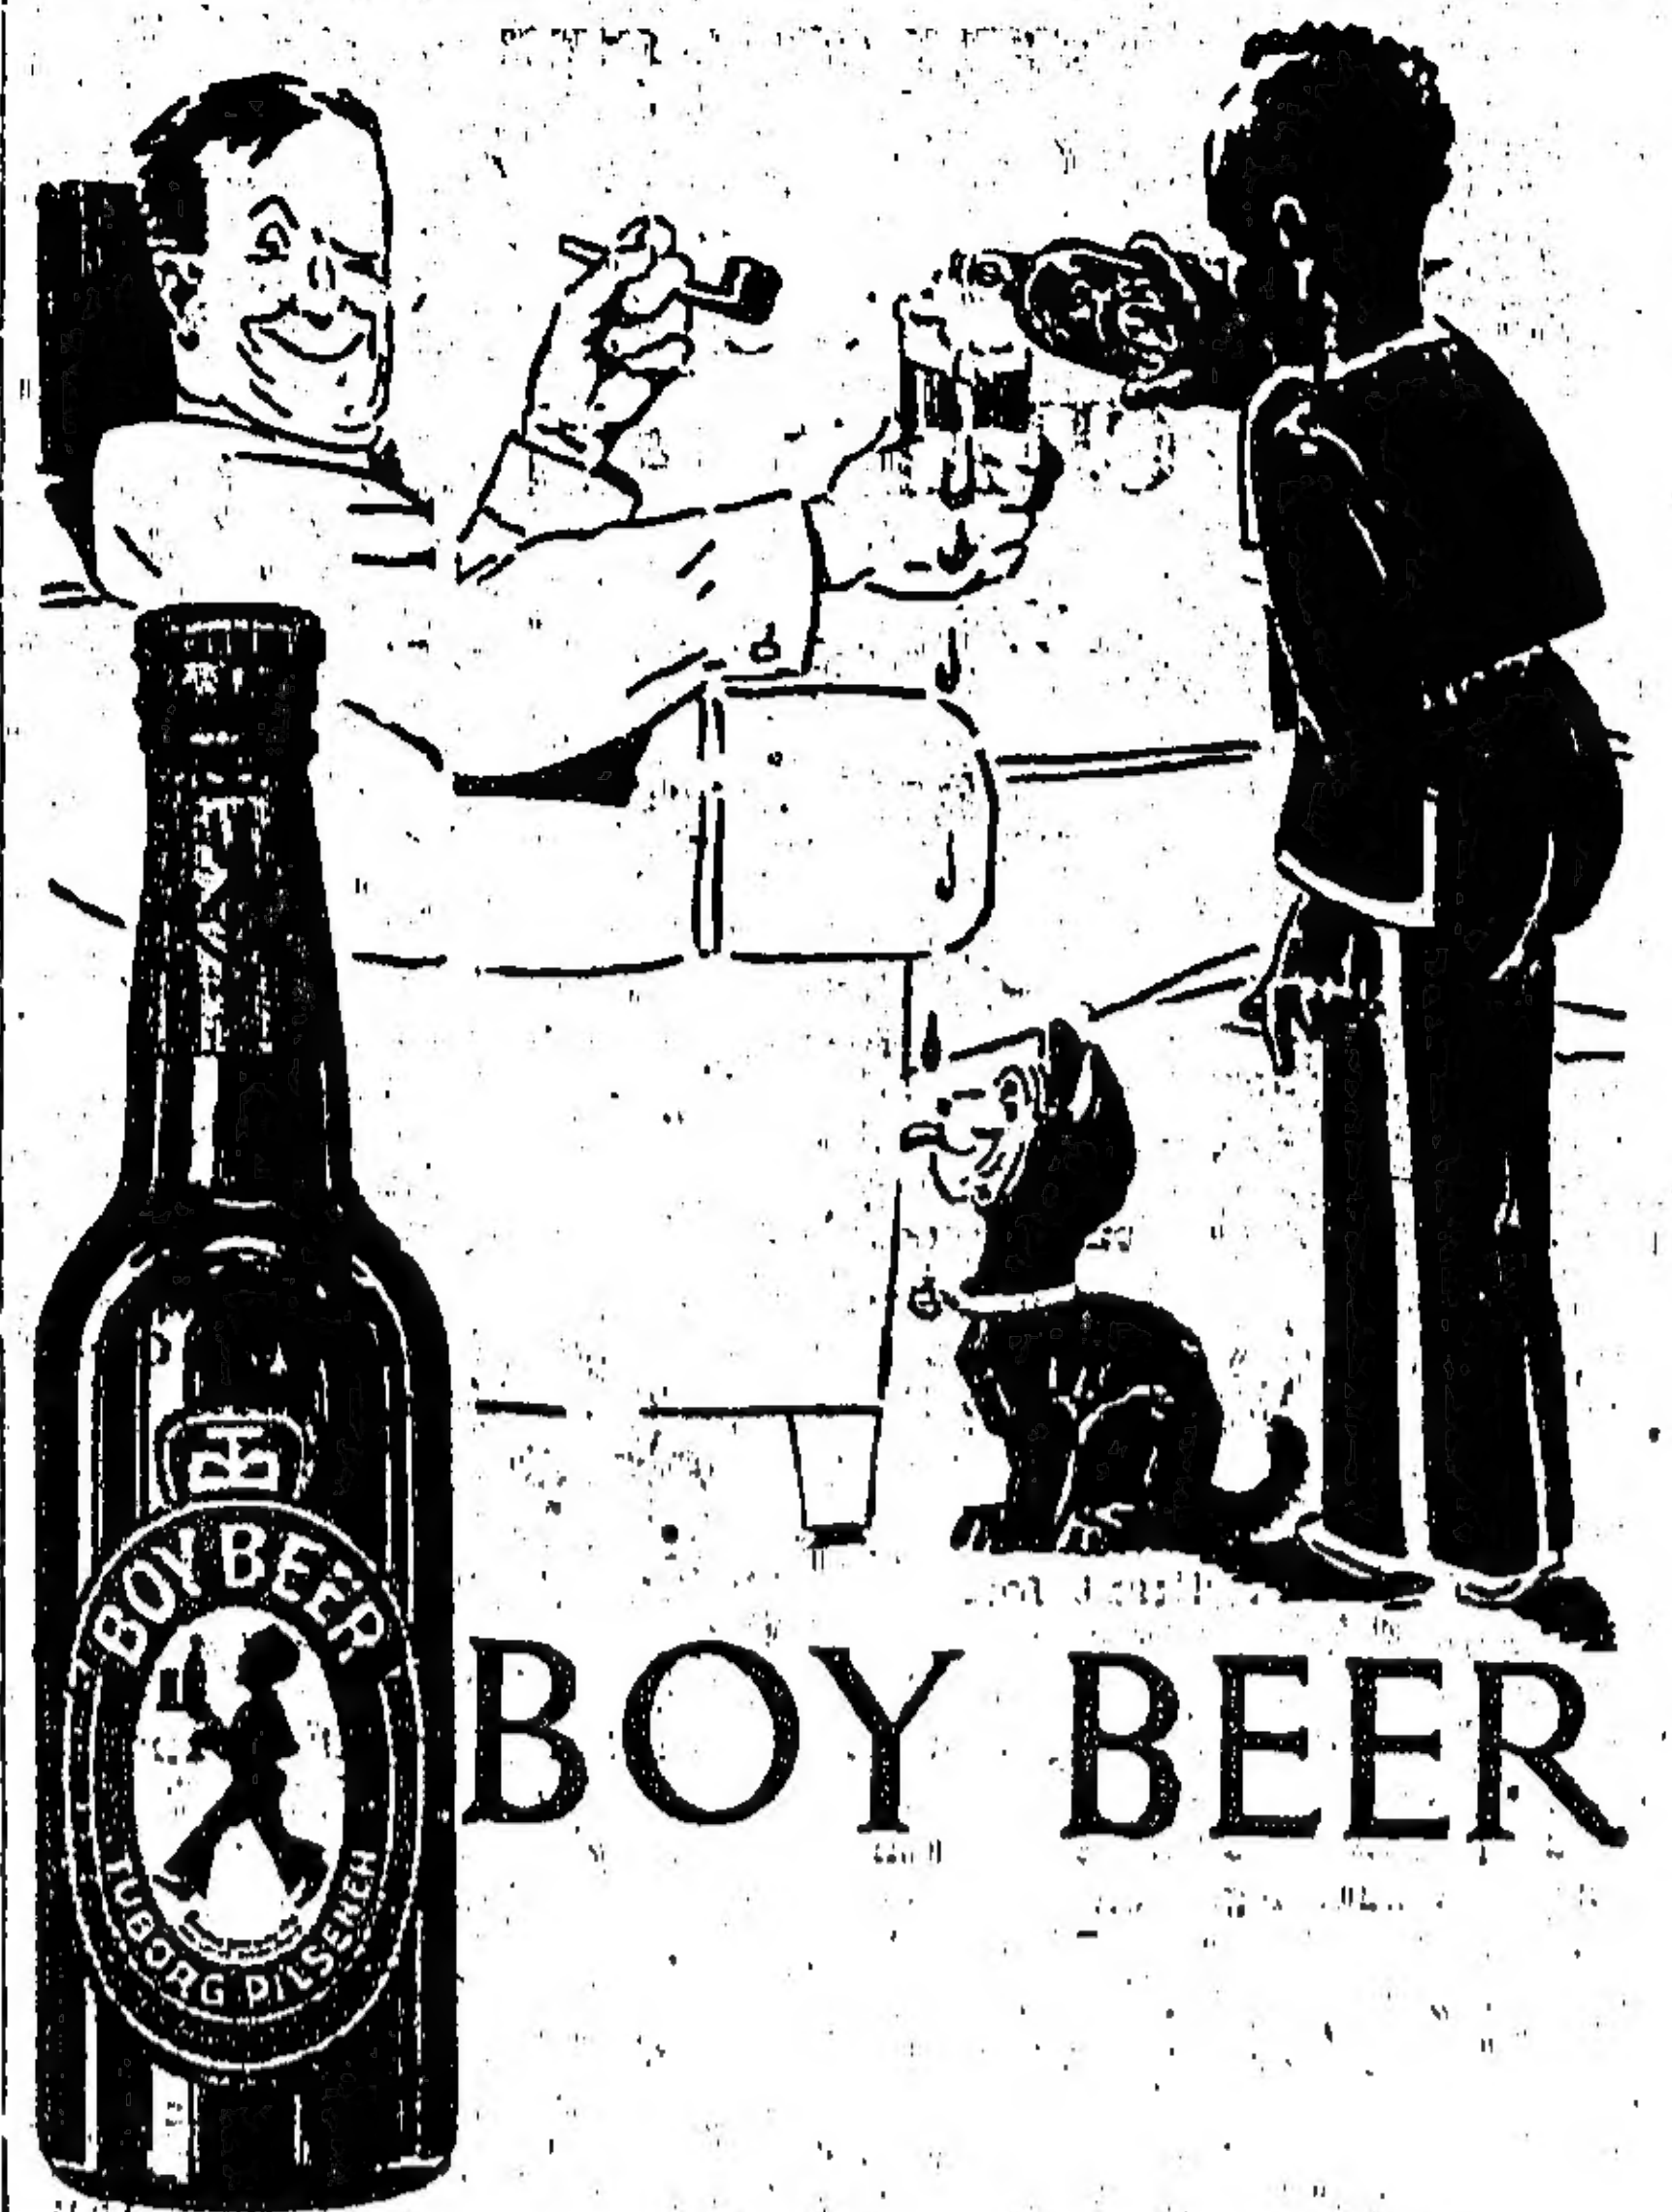

The 100 was scored in 132 minutes and the second century in 249 minutes.

Barnett was 178 minutes in play and hit six boundaries. His customary aggression was absent and he was almost unenterprising.

Flashlock, who scored 40, displayed neat footwork, cutting and driving, but his timing was sometimes faulty. He was struck in the right hand by a fast one from Cotton in the first over. Although his hand was swollen he batted on pluckily and together with Barnett he added 98 for the first wicket.

Leyland scored only a single, while Ames contributed 36 in a sparkling innings. Wyatt played a stubborn game, his 52 not-out including three boundaries.

Barnett when he had scored 47 completed his thousand runs for the tour. Hammond, who scored only ten, secured a similar distinction when he had made three runs—

The Proven STOMACH REMEDY for Bad Cases

Amazing evidence of the remarkable speed with which indigestion and stomach pains can be stopped has been revealed by medical experiments and X-ray photographs of actual cases. These prove the ingredients of "Bisurated" Magnesia to be the quickest-acting and most effective known to medical science. Within 5 minutes a teaspoonful of "Bisurated" Magnesia in a little water produces complete relief in cases where previous remedies had failed entirely.

Its Action Explained—
Simply take a teaspoonful of the powder in a little water. The moment this soothing draught reaches the irritated stomach it begins to twinkle the sour fermenting undigested food. The contents of the stomach become as bland and soothing as milk to the sensitive stomach lining. The pain quickly lessens and promptly disappears. By following up the treatment after each meal, your harassed stomach will soon lose its tenderness and grow strong, until you eat and whatever you like and enjoy every meal, without fear of wind and pain.

minutes Ian followed them. Stopping on the bridge he watched the swans. How gracefully they moved. What a thrill it was to see them. How truly wonderfully it must be to move through all your life like that; no hurrying, no struggling. No stupid questions to puzzle you: perfect peace.

A little girl threw a piece of bread on to the bank, and a swan finding it's long neck not long enough to secure the tit-bit, scrambled out on to the river side and struggled towards the prize. The change in its appearance was so sudden and so grotesque that a smile crossed Ian's face. Gone was all the grace and poise. Its placid bearing had vanished as it waddled forward on its short stubby legs; an ugly duckling! MacEwen walked on until he was confronted with that block of granite on the top of which is carved the head of Thomas Carlyle.

"An ugly lump of a thing! but symbolic, I suppose. But the old man has a powerful face. Aye, and he was right too—we're not here to be happy out, to try to be good. Happiness just comes. If a man has a spot of work to do, a servitude in which to live, he can ask no more—merely the chance to pay his way and make good his debt to the past."

The University bell tolled the hour of noon. "Must I return? Must I become a minister for Christ's sake?" Ian turned towards the University and proceeded to climb the hill into its precincts. He entered by the main door into the cloisters. They were as cold and draughty as ever they had been. Pigeons cooed in the shelter of the Butte Hall's gothic windows. They tumbled playfully in the branches of the tall elms in the medical quad. A white coated youth appeared in a distant corner—a forerunner of engineering science, no doubt; he disappeared inside another doorway to fulfil the errand of some tiresome and tiring professor.

NO VOCATION

MacEwen leaned against the railing which surrounded the lawn. He pictured to himself what it would be like if he came back here again. The quad's were not always like this. And where would it all end? Another plastering of grease paint; another degree and he would be able to serve Christ? He continued thinking. He had no vocation for the ministry. Why enter it then? Was it the economic security which tempted him? He realised that there was a great deal in that. Were the Divinity Halls not being crowded with graduates who had despaired of finding remunerative employment in the other professions. Others were doing it. Others were using Christ for their own ends.

why not have a try too? His gaze rested upon the tall walls of the surrounding buildings. Stone upon stone they had been reared. The Chapel and the new wing in the Arts Quad shone bright in the noonday sun. Inwardly he thanked God for the benediction of the sun—God's sun. Surely there was a wider world than that of the Church in which he might serve Christ, a world as wide as the sunshine. Surely one's service of the Master should be as free as His love. And still the pigeons kept up their cooing; but whether it was the influence of their shameless love-making and the bright Spring morning, or because he had been thoroughly weaned, Ian MacEwen laid a gentle hand on the last sun-warmed pillar of the cloisters and walked away. Thus did that kindly old mother, Universitas Glascaensis bid a quiet farewell to another of her sons.

Once outside the gates in University Avenue, Ian knew that he was right. His spirit was unaccountably elated. He walked down Woodlands Road to Charing Cross and went to lunch in the Roseberry, a little restaurant in North Street. He smiled to the waitress who came to receive his order.

A FREE MAN

"Scotch broth, please." He emptied the plate. He was a free man, because he was Christ's alone. Spring was in the air and in his veins.

"Steak-ple, please." He sat brooding for a moment, his fork poised above the dish. Then with the historic elation of Archimedes he stabbed a piece of steak—"I've got it!" he exclaimed and leaving the transfixed steak he rose, paid his bill and went out of the restaurant.

He crossed the road and bought a small note-book and went into the Mitchell Library. In ten minutes he had all the ordnance survey maps of Argyllshire before him and had begun to plan a tour in the western highlands. It would be a gesture in Christ's name to the world and the fate which had tried to shackle him. He was free. And while he planned the words of a children's hymn which he had learned long ago kept running through his head.

"Jesus high in glory,
Lend a listening ear,
When we bow before Thee,
Children's praises hear."
He stopped and looked up at the distant glass roof of the Central Reading Hall. The sun was shining brilliantly outside.
"High in glory," he repeated aloud. An excited little figure came scurrying towards him.
"Will you stop talking, Sir, or go out."
MacEwen laughed. "Thanks for the advice—Jesus."

BROADCASTING—IN TIME OF WAR

B.B.C. Now Ready With Plans

The appointment of a B.B.C. official to evolve an emergency plan of action in case of war need cause neither surprise nor alarm. It is merely a reminder that in the modern State broadcasting is an essential service, writes a Home correspondent.

Idealists have hoped that free interchange of information among the nations through broadcasting, which knows no frontiers, might be a great force for peace. That hope has not been abandoned, but with it has come recognition that in the calamity of war broadcasting must play a vital part in defence.

THE LANGUAGE PROBLEM

Language has been the great obstacle to the effective use of broadcasting for better understanding among nations. "Nation Shall Speak Peace Unto Nation," said the B.B.C.'s former motto. Yes, but in what language?

When foreign countries in their short-wave services use the languages of other nations the action only seems to raise fresh antagonism and suspicion among their neighbours. The explanation may be that few of these bulletins are free from the taint of propaganda. This is the great dilemma of broadcasting. Use your own language and the foreigner will not understand; use his, and he is suspicious.

Incidentally, I hear that the question of appropriate use by the B.B.C. of foreign languages is still under consideration in Government circles.

SECRET PLANS

Details of Lt.-Col. Stafford's plans for organising the B.B.C. on a war-time basis are secret. It is known, however, that the Government would immediately take over the service. Probably some transmitters would be used for broadcasting propaganda in the languages of enemy countries. Others might be deputed to jam hostile propaganda. But there has never been any large-scale demonstration of the efficacy of deliberate interference.

The Italians jammed Addis Ababa with Morse signals, but during the Spanish civil war, both sides seem to have put the broadcasting stations to more positive uses.

BOMB-PROOF SHELTERS

I understand that bomb-proof and gas-proof shelters have been proposed for the new extension of Broadcasting House. In any event, the destruction of broadcasting headquarters would not silence broadcasting.

A studio in North Wales or in Scotland could supply all the B.B.C. transmitters with a single simultaneous programme of news and information. The transmitters may be vulnerable from the air, but if one were wiped out a dozen others would be waiting. In the last resort a special mobile transmitter might be used.

EMPIRE AIRWAYS

NO MORE RAIL JOURNEYS

The first step in the elimination of the rail journey from Paris to Brindisi in connection with Imperial Airways' services to the Empire was taken on New Year's Day.

The flying-boat Castor, which flew from Southampton on Sunday, operated the first service out of Brindisi in connection with Imperial Airways' services to the Empire was taken on New Year's Day.

It was Castor's maiden service flight, the journey being to Brindisi, via Lake Bracciano, Rome, and she will fly to Alexandria, carrying passengers and mails for India.

Until this stage the Mediterranean section of the Empire air routes had been Brindisi and Alexandria, necessitating a train journey between Paris and Brindisi.

Train Only In France

At present the change over will not affect time-tables, passengers will have to travel by train only from Paris to Marseilles, and spend one night on the train instead of two, and the other night at a hotel at Brindisi. The service, which will be operated from Marseilles for the present, will comprise the two services each week outward to India and the two inward from Africa.

The inward services from India and the out-bound services to Africa will still operate via Brindisi meantime, but further changes will be made as more flying-boats are delivered by the makers, and Empire air services will operate in the near future directly from Southampton.

Castor is in charge of Captain G. J. Powell and First Officer W. L. Garner, accompanied by Flight Engineer Green and Wireless Operator Jones.

PHILIPPINE MINING NEWS

Generally good results and increased efficiency marked the operations of Antamok Goldfields and of Masbate Consolidated, two of the Soriano-managed mining projects during December. The monthly reports of the general superintendent of these companies, H. A. DeWitt and A. A. Friedman, respectively, were released by the Manila office last week.

MASBATE CONSOLIDATED

"During the month of December, 1936, a total of 44,212 tons were delivered to the mill bins. Of this tonnage, 35 per cent came from the underground stopes, 41 per cent from talus and open cuts, 8 per cent from Panique development and 16 per cent from the Colorado Mine.

PANIQUE

"A total of 2,200 feet were driven at Panique plus 173 feet of widening on level 6. On level 3, the Bin Vein Crosscut opened up a width of 35 feet of manganese ore. On level 4 in the Wyoming Area development was confined primarily to work to carrying existing pillars.

"On level 4 in the Doris area caving development continued on this block. On level 6, the Breccia Crosscut was advanced 140 feet which approached the Breccia lode with the appearance of quartz and calcite. On level 6, the Star and Bin Veins Drifts, S. E. were advanced 94 and 21 feet respectively and installation of chutes started on the former to draw the old fill.

"On level 6 in the Doris Area, eight raises and four crosscuts were advanced in development of this block part of which were completed during the month.

"On level 700, the 701 drift and 706 Crosscut were advanced 23 and 57 feet respectively in low grade quartz calcite. A drift was placed in the former heading to speed up advance towards the Wyoming H. W. orebody.

"The Marion 4 yard shovel operated throughout the month on Nancy No. 2 Lode on 2 level and delivered 6,092 tons of ore to the mill plus an additional 1,641 tons delivered to the stockpile. Costs delivered to the mill bin before depreciation were P0.31 per ton delivered.

COLOREADO
"A total of 393 feet of development work were driven at Colorado during December.

"On level 1A, a total of 140 feet of drifting was done to open up the three sections of 5 lode cut by the main crosscut. On levels 200, 500 and 600, one hundred and eighty seven feet were driven primarily to facilitate removal of already developed ores.

"On level 700, the 709 crosscut was advanced 66 feet towards 609 winze. A mineralized zone was cut about 20 feet wide in this crosscut but assays were not commercial.

"During December, 7269 tons were delivered to the mill from the Colorado Mine from stopes, the 2 level open cut and development.

"On December 24, during the typhoon, about 1,000 tons of waste dropped into the 200 open cut which had to be scraped out before resumption of mining.

MILLING

"A total of 43,014 tons were milled during the month and bullion shipped valued at P242,341.41 at present market prices. Tonnage and heads were slightly lower than that of November but extraction was increased considerably, accounting for an increase of over P35,000 in bullion over that of November.

"Tonnage was down during the middle ten days of the month caused by having to relime and repair mills Nos. 1, 2 and 5.

"The general all-round efficiency and marked improvement was shown in the plant during December.

CONSTRUCTION

"In the barrio, three employees' cottages were completed as well as repairs on the older houses and general sanitation worked affected.

"In the filter plant, piping continued on No. 4 Butters filter along with fabrication of the new type of filter leaf.

"The building over the New Gravity Filter Head was completed.

"The barrio wash gravity tank was 80 per cent completed. The new Assay Office was 50 per cent completed.

FROM SAIL TO STEAM

Naval Engineering
100 Years Ago

For engineers in the Royal Navy the year 1837 marks the centenary of more than one interesting development in their branch of the Service. Engineers in 1837 were raised from the position of civilians to the rank of warrant officers, and for the first time the engineering branch had a representative at Whitehall. Because of the Post Office steam packets being placed under the Admiralty the number of steam vessels in the Navy List was almost doubled, and on August 8, 1837, the first steam frigate, H.M.S. Gorgon, was launched at Pembroke.

Steam vessels had first appeared in the Navy List in December, 1827, when the names of the Echo, Lightning, and Meteor were included; by December, 1836, there were some 29 such vessels shown, including the earliest steam war vessels, the Rhadamanthus, Dec, Phoenix, Salamander, and Medea, the last of which in 1837 was doing excellent work in the Mediterranean. Several other steam vessels were engaged in carrying the mails from Falmouth to Malta, Alexandria, and elsewhere. It was partly the good service given by these ships that led to the Admiralty being made responsible for the cross-Channel mail service. "The Times" of December 20, 1836, quoting from the "Observer," noted that "all the necessary arrangements for transferring to the Board or Admiralty the packet establishment of the Post Office have been finally completed and the transfer will immediately take place."

FIRST ENGINEER-IN-CHIEF

At that time the headquarters of the steam department of the Royal Navy were at Woolwich Dockyard, the responsible engineer being Peter Ewart, an old friend of James Watt, who in 1835, at the age of 68, had by Order of Council been appointed Chief Engineer and Inspector of Steam Machinery. The real working head of the branch, however, was a much younger man, Thomas Lloyd (1803-1875), who in 1847 became the first Engineer-in-Chief of the Navy. With the addition of the Post Office packets to the Fleet and the increase in the size and number of steam war vessels, the Admiralty came to the conclusion that the Department ought to be represented at headquarters, and an Order in Council, dated April 19, 1837, was promulgated respecting the "Appointment of a Comptroller of the Steam Machinery and Packet Department of the Navy." The choice of the Admiralty fell on Captain (afterwards Admiral) Sir William Edward Parry (1780-1855), who already had distinguished himself as an explorer, hydrographer, and administrator. It may be surmised that he was generally liked, and in the "Proceedings" of the Institution of Civil Engineers it is recorded that on February 19,

On July 19, 1837, the day, incidentally, that Brunel's Great Western was launched at Bristol, regulations were issued for "Engineers and engineers' boys." By these engineers became warrant officers on the same footing as gunners, boatswains, and carpenters; a first class engineer getting £9 12s.

1d. a month, a second class £2 16s. and a third class £4 18s. Superannuation was provided for, but the conditions left much to be desired, and almost immediately the engineers began their long agitation for improved status and remuneration. The two dates, April 19 and July 19, 1837, however, are landmarks in the rise of the naval engineer and in the history of an important department of a great Service.
